Northmen A's ready to defend title in Minto final narrow the gap to within three, bookending Ivey's unassisted powerplay goal at 8:01. Yet Rose and the Orangeville defence shut down Brampton's offence from that point on, earning the Northmen a 8-5 victory.

With a berth in the final almost guaranteed, Orangeville took the opportunity to rest a few players and to give Dylan Ward a shot between the pipes when they took to the floor Tuesday night against Edmonton.

Needing a win to stay in the tournament, Edmonton threw everything they had at the Northmen.

With Edmonton up 2-0 early in the frame, the Northmen were in the unusual position of having to battle back, which they managed to do thanks to goals from Jordan Critch, Jesse Gamble and Jones to end the period tied at 3-3.

Over the next two periods, Orangeville would pull away from the Eclipse, going up 10-7 on goals from Mike Teeter, Critch, Ivey Suitoer and Jones with 13 minutes left to play.

Undaunted, Edmonton kept the fans in their seats and the Northmen honest, scoring twice more to draw back within one with five minutes left in regulation time.

That would be all they could manage as Orangeville hung on to win 10-9.

With the win, Orangeville finished first in the round robin portion of the tournament and, in doing so, earned themselves a bye to the finals to be played this weekend.

Their opponent will either be Coquitlam or Brampton who will face each other one more time in a semi-final game to be played Wednesday night (results unavailable at press-time).

Game one of the best of three final is slated for 8 p.m. Friday night at the Powerade Centre with game two scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday. If a game three is required, it will be played Sunday evening with the opening draw scheduled for 7 p.m.

Kaitlin Bolton and family face constant challenges

granny flat in the house. They can watch over Kaitlin while her mother is out but they are not able to lift her.

"We face all the challenges," Mrs. Bolton told me. She also emphasized that part of the cause of this tragic disease is pesticides in the environment. When Kaitlin's hair and blood were analyzed, the levels of pesticides were far above what could possibly be considered tolerable.

"There's a company in B.C. that wants to make pesticides with flavouring because people complain about the smell," she said. "I was asked to sign a petition to stop — and I certainly did. Imagine if pesticide smelt nice, children might lie down on the lawn to smell it," she added with disgust.

Of her own daughter, she said, "Kaitlin is always very happy — she is laughing and carrying on all the time."

No wonder, then, that Dr. Thomason says he has "fallen in love" with the girl. The doctor, who has a neuro-chemical background, comes to Orangeville once or twice a year to monitor Kaitlin's condition at no charge to the Boltons. It is he who prescribes the vitamins and minerals that are given to Kaitlin.

"This is the alternative to nothing," he pointed out. "Conventional doctors wash their hands of this because they just don't know how to treat it. They are very matter-of-fact about what will happen and then they turn their backs on it."

Dr. Thomason is anxious to convey that MLD is not simply a missing enzyme but a series of occurrences, a link of deficiencies all affecting each other. This is a multiple problem, not a dilemma of one aspect of the person's make up.

His aim is to try to "restart the body to restructuring enzyme production and neural efficiency." He looks on MLD, as well as other neuro degenerative conditions such as Alzheimer's, dementia, and ALS as neuro-chemical abnormalities born of autoimmune deficiencies.

The problem with these diseases is multi-dimensional and needs to be treated on many levels.

"Nutrition is at the base," he said, "from a dog eating poor kibble to a person eating bad food." To fight the diseases, "the treatment is not just drugs, we're giving building blocks."

He is fascinated by Kaitlin's condition: "Her mental faculties are way ahead of what we expected."

His treatment is a carefully thought-out blend of vitamins like vitamin C and amino acids, as well as some isolated compounds. He has patented a process of blood analyzes based on the math around alga rhythms.

He continues to alter the treatment she gets, every 10 to 12 months, so as to "keep her body involved" with the process of restoring the missing enzymes.

As for his deep interest in Kaitlin's case, he told me that in addition to having fallen in love with her, "my expertise falls in line with what is wrong with her." Indeed, he hopes to publish his research and findings in order to add credence to "alternative" ways of treating otherwise untreatable neurological diseases.

Dr. Thomason can be reached at rwt@rogue-research.com.

So, here's the deal: on Sunday, September 13, there'll be a beautiful ride of 133 kilometres through some of the loveliest country in Ontario with a gang of people all there to enjoy the ride. There are prizes to be won and a jack pot at the end.

Best of all is the support the day will give to the Bolton family, who will not give up on their daughter and the brave young Kaitlin herself who still loves to laugh and can only blink to say hello.
